The perfect omelettes you're served in restaurants are flipped. Flipping an omelette is a skill that takes some practice to master. If you've never done it before, you may have a mess on your hands. A simpler solution is to use a rubber spatula to gently lift up the layer of cooked eggs, and let the uncooked, liquid portion slide underneath. Hold the pan underneath the broiler for a few moments to completely set the top.

Jalapeno peppers get their heat from capsaicin and related compounds. The heat from hot peppers is measured in "Scoville Units" - fiery Jalapenos can rate up to 10,000 SU! Fortunately, most of the heat is concentrated in the seeds - so you can control the heat level by removing the seeds, or limiting how many are added to the dish. Exercise caution when cutting/seeding Jalapenos - wash your hands thoroughly after handling, and keep your hands away from your eyes!

Chocolate-Banana Protein Bars

8 Bars

Ingredients

2 large, ripe bananas (about 300 g)
 1 tsp. ground cinnamon
 2 tbsp. unsweetened cocoa powder
 3 large raw egg whites
 4 oz. nonfat milk
 2 1/2 c. (200 g) old-fashioned rolled oats
 1/3 c. Splenda
 1 tbsp. olive oil
 60 g chocolate Designer Whey (or equivalent brand/flavor)

Directions

Mix ingredients in a large bowl. Pour into non-stick cake pan. Bake at 300°F for 25 minutes or until firm. Let cool slightly before cutting. We have made these into 8 small bars, but you could easily make into 4 larger ones, with double the protein (e.g., 23 g protein per bar).

If you don't want the fat replace the oil with unsweetened applesauce. It will taste just as good and still retain the moist but firm texture.

Commercial protein bars are often made with cheap protein blends, such as soy and hydrolyzed collagen. Many are low in fiber and need to be fortified in order to offer any vitamins and minerals at all. Making your own is easy, and is considerably less expensive than what you can buy in a store.

Bars like these make excellent snacks and can also be used as a part of a quick meal on-the-go.

Making food ahead of time can take the sting out of preparing and eating 6 meals a day. Cold salads made from leftover meat, poultry or fish work especially well for meals that need to be eaten away from home: just scoop into a container, toss into a cooler with some "blue ice" packs, along with some pre-cut veggies, whole grain crisp-breads, etc., and you're good to go.

This tuna salad has a complex blend of flavors and a nutty crunch. It's great in lettuce wraps, and takes only a few minutes to toss together.

Protein-Fortified Rice

Serves 2

Ingredients

1/2 c. (50 g) raw broccoli, chopped or diced
 1 small stalk (25 g) of raw celery, diced
 6 egg whites
 1 c. (100 g) sliced raw mushrooms
 1/4 c. long-grain, raw, brown rice
 1/3 c. water or broth
 1/4 c. pace chunky salsa
 2 tbsp. lite soy sauce
 1 c. raw spinach
 1/3 c. (50 g) grams raw onion, chopped
 salt to taste

Directions

Lightly steam the broccoli to a crisp-tender texture. In a pan coated with cooking spray, add soy sauce, chopped onion, sliced mushrooms, steamed broccoli, chopped celery and spinach. Cook on medium heat until spinach is cooked. Add water/broth, soy sauce and rice and simmer until liquid has cooked away. Once all the ingredients are cooked add in the 6 egg whites and stir until the eggs are completely cooked. Top with salsa.

This makes a very large meal for one. Or can be split and served with a side dish.

“Vegetarian bodybuilder” is an oxymoron to some – although some vegetarians have been able to attain impressive physiques. One of the best-known vegetarian bodybuilder was Bill Pearl, whose book, “Keys to the Inner Universe” is considered a classic.

Making oat flour is as simple as a container of old-fashioned rolled oats and a blender. Whole oat flour is an effective substitute for wheat flour in a variety of recipes: waffles, pancakes, muffins, etc.

Combine oil, chicken broth, vinegar, basil, oregano, and garlic in baking dish to create a marinade. Prepare eight skewer kabobs: on each skewer, place chicken, bell pepper, broccoli, mushroom, and tomato - repeating the process until all the ingredients have been placed on each skewer. Place skewers in marinade and brush to cover. Tightly seal with foil and bake in preheated 350 degree oven for 20 minutes, remove foil and continue baking 10-15 more minutes. Place on 2 dinner plates and serve.

Kabobs are one of those flexible recipes where substitutions and variations can easily be made. For example, you can substitute lean beef, firm fish like salmon, pork tenderloin, - even tofu. You can use different vegetables, different marinades, or cook them under the broiler or on an outdoor barbecue grill. Use your imagination to create endless variations on the theme.

Eggs are considered one of nature's most perfect foods, and they've been used as the standard for evaluating the protein quality from other food sources. Although eggs have gotten a bad rap for their cholesterol content, data has shown that dietary cholesterol has less impact on serum cholesterol than was previously supposed. Most people who eat eggs on a regular basis find they don't increase their cholesterol levels.

*Egg whites are a good source of practically fat-free protein and can be used as a substitute for whole eggs in a number of different recipes. Liquid egg whites are also available, and are more convenient than separating the whites from whole eggs.  1 tbsp. raw honey
 2 tsp. sea salt
 2 tbsp. nonfat dry milk powder

Beans are a vastly underrated source of low-GI carbohydrates. Beans are very nutrient-dense as well: a cup of cooked black beans, for example, provides 20 - 60% of the recommended daily intakes of iron, thiamin, folate, magnesium, manganese and fiber. Beans also contain more protein than most plant foods. Plant proteins are limiting in certain essential amino acids, but in the context of a mixed diet, they can still make a significant contribution.

Chocolate Brownies

20 Squares

Ingredients

2 large egg whites
 1/2 c. honey
 6 heaping scoops (200 g) chocolate protein powder
 1/2 c. nonfat milk
 1 c. natural peanut butter
 2 c. old-fashioned rolled oats

Directions

Mix the peanut butter and honey in a bowl, microwave on high for 100 secs. Add the rest of the ingredients and mix together. This is tough to mix and it takes time. If you don't have the tools you may want to cut the oatmeal a bit to make it easier to work. Preheat oven to 320° F. Smooth into 13x9 tray and bake for 20 minutes. Oven times may vary, use the toothpick test. Cut into 20 equal bars and wrap and store in fridge.

There's nothing like a brownie when you need a chocolate fix. Fortunately, these also provide some protein and nutrition from whole oats and peanut butter. Just goes to show you that eating "clean" doesn't mean you have to give up desserts or treats completely.

Serves 8

Ingredients

32 oz. Atlantic wild-caught salmon
 1/4 c. fresh lemon juice
 1 raw 7-8" carrot, sliced
 1 tsp. bay leaf, crumbled
 1/2 medium raw cucumber, peeled and chopped
 8 oz. fat-free sour cream
 1/2 small raw onion, chopped
 1 medium (approx. 2 1/2") onion, chopped
 2 cloves
 1 black peppercorn
 salt to taste

Directions

Arrange the salmon steaks in a large skillet. Pour the lemon juice over the salmon. Fill the skillet with 1 inch of water. Add sliced carrot, thinly sliced onion, cloves, bay leaf and peppercorn. Bring to a boil, then reduce heat and cover. Simmer gently for 20 minutes, or until fish flakes easily with a fork. Remove fish to warm platter, and serve with carrots on side as garnish. Mix peeled, chopped cucumber, 1/2 chopped onion and sour cream together and serve as a sauce.

Salmon is an excellent source of high quality protein and essential fatty acids.

It is less expensive to buy farmed salmon. Farmed salmon, however, has been found to contain higher levels of environmental contaminants. Wild-caught salmon contains fewer pollutants than the farmed varieties, making it worth the added cost.

Canned, water-packed tuna is a bodybuilding staple: it's an excellent source of high-quality, virtually fat-free protein. And there's no real cooking needed - just open a can or foil packet and you're set. But it can be dry-tasting, and boring to eat day-after-day. Tuna & Cheese melts are one way to help make tuna more interesting, that are simple and quick to prepare.

Oat bran is an especially rich source of beta-glucan, and is somewhat higher in minerals than regular oatmeal.
